Why is it important to seek advice from BETA ENFAR Members?

Instead of obtaining advice from social media influencers, internet forums and endless search engine browsing, there are more reliable and accessible ways to find practical, expert guidance.

Contacting BETA ENFAR Members will give you confidence that you are:

- Receiving good, up to date advice
- Are recommended legally compliant products
- Contacting a friendly and knowledgeable professional

Anyone can access the BETA ENFAR Directory by scanning the QR Code or visiting <https://beta-uk.org/enfar-directory/>.

RECEIVING THE BEST NUTRITIONAL ADVICE FOR YOU AND YOUR HORSE

WHO DO YOU GO TO FOR FEEDING ADVICE?

Everyone seems to have an opinion on what to feed and unfortunately, even people with limited or no qualifications can call themselves a nutritionist!

Receiving incorrect or misleading advice may put your horse's health and wellbeing at risk and can end up being very expensive.

THIS IS WHY BETA ENFAR MATTERS.....

WHAT IS ENFAR?

BETA ENFAR is a register to guide you to qualified, experienced professionals who are able to provide appropriate, evidence-based advice and information.

BETA ENFAR Members have been rigorously assessed to ensure they have up to date knowledge and are committed to ongoing CPD and best practice.

AIMS OF ENFAR

- Try to address poor advising and poor practices by ALL those who give feed and nutritional advice.
- ENFAR is a showcase for nutritionists and feed advisers who keep up to date and offer a good standard of advice.
- To be a trustworthy source for reliable and credible advice.

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN EQUINE NUTRITIONISTS & FEED ADVISERS?

ENFAR recognises the role of Equine Nutritionists and Feed Advisers. There is no judgement or inferiority, just different roles in a typical working day.

- Equine Nutritionists are principally engaged in feeding and nutrition activities and have to be degree qualified.
- Feed Advisers may visit yards or work in retail. They provide feed advice to horse owners but it is not their primary role.
